(Black) Teen Literacy Matters
A Transformational Industry Credential
+ an ecosystem for many to come.

The system of Industry Recognized Credentials is not working as envisioned.

In most states, Black teacher candidates are a tiny fraction of the population.

Reading instruction is a much more demanding profession than many believe.

Many teenagers are sleepwalking through high school, and our high schools are sleepwalking through the twenty-first century. There's a lot of talk about reimagining high schools, but very little transformative action.
